Tax, super and you

Resource ID	M010782
Link to resource	http://resolver.thelearningfederation.edu.au/?rft_id=10257/5843393
Resource description	The 'Tax, super and you' website is designed for use by students in years 10 to 12 and their teachers. It includes four modules. 'Tax 101' is a general introduction, 'Your tax' focuses on individuals, and 'Business tax' focuses on companies. The final module explores the concept of superannuation. Six interactive resources accompany the website. Housed in a Moodle environment, the website enables teachers to customise courses and to monitor student progress through an online database.
Relevance of resource to careers education	This website is designed to engage years 10–12 students with the key elements of the taxation and superannuation systems in Australia. It is underpinned by the aim that students understand the synergies between a healthy tax system, active citizenship and the provision of community assets. It will give students an understanding of their role as working citizens within this system, and of the system's impacts on their professional and personal lives.

MoneySmart: Teaching resources for VET

Resource ID	M020871
Link to resource	http://resolver.thelearningfederation.edu.au/?rft_id=10257/5869708
Resource description	ASIC's Be MoneySmart is an online training resource for VET students and senior high school students. It helps students to develop money management skills which support their future careers in small business or as contractors. It consists of five online modules: Saving, budgeting and spending; Personal tax; Superannuation; Debt management; and Insurance. Each module supports 1 hour of online activity and 2 hours of offline study and includes a student workbook. Be MoneySmart has been designed to support the delivery of the unit of competency FNSFLT301 - Be MoneySmart, either as an imported unit in a variety of courses, or as part of the Certificate III in Financial Services (FNS30111). It can also be used as part of non-accredited training for general money management skills programs.
Relevance of resource to careers education	This resource deals with the nature of work and money.
